LUNCH & LEARN

CI Mastermind

CI TRAINING USUALLY INVOLVES A BIG TIME COMMITMENT

Organizations aiming to incorporate continuous improvement training face several challenges in creating time for their employees to attend these sessions:

- Competing Priorities: employees often have demanding workloads and deadlines, making it difficult to prioritize training over immediate job responsibilities.
- Limited Resources: budget constraints can limit the ability to provide extensive training programs, including covering the cost of trainers, materials, and potential venue fees.
- Scheduling Conflicts: finding a time that accommodates all interested participants can be challenging, especially in organizations with shift work, flexible schedules, or global teams operating across different time zones.

HOW IT WORKS?

- Weekly surgical sessions held in a casual setting, often over lunch, making learning more relaxed and approachable.
- Hands on learning so people can conceptualize and build up the reason for action to learn more.
- These sessions minimize disruption to the workday, allowing employees to learn without significantly impacting their productivity.
- The format encourages interactive, practical learning experiences, where participants can engage directly with the material and apply what they learn in real-time.
- Open to All Employees: They are designed to be inclusive, offering all team members, regardless of their role or level within the organization, the opportunity to participate and contribute.
- Focus on Continuous Improvement: The content is specifically tailored towards fostering a mindset of continuous improvement, covering topics such as process optimization, quality enhancement, and innovative thinking.
